

BUILDING THE TEXAS ECONOMY ONE BUSINESS AT A TIME

The national Small Business Development Center (SBDC) program was legislated via the Small Business Act of 1976 as a program of the U.S. Small Business Administration. Leveraged federal funding involves cooperative agreements with institutions of higher education. State governments play a vital role as key partners to efficiently and effectively leverage resources which complement the State's economic development efforts.

SBDCs provide small business owners and aspiring entrepreneurs with no-cost professional business advising and at-cost training on topics such as developing a business plan, accessing capital, finding new customers, compliance with regulations, exporting, cybersecurity, technology commercialization, and more.

The Texas SBDC Network is comprised of four lead offices strategically located at:

- Texas Tech University
- The University of Texas at San Antonio
- Dallas County Community College District
- University of Houston

Combined, they manage the 50+ field centers in urban and rural Texas. SBDCs provide hands-on guidance, which leads to greater prosperity via job creation, increased capital access, and other small business growth.

For every $1.00 invested in Texas SBDCs, a return of $7.06 is generated."
